

In the last decade cell phone companies have been eating each other up to leave consumers with very few choices.

AT&T already bought Cingular, and that was too much. It is time for this monopolization to stop.

I do not want AT&T to become bigger while stealing another choice from the consumers, from me. If it weren't for the FCC, I'm sure AT&T or one of the other phone companies would be well on their way to recreating the whole Ma Bell situation of the past.

This cannot happen. AT&T should not be able to buy T-Mobile, nor should they be able to buy out the ones ruling the decision.

Don't let them get T-Mobile too.
